

Risky Play - A step by step approach

Are you terrified when your educators come to you wanting to include more RISKY play? Risky play is a requirement of the EYLF, MTOP and NQS. Do you know how to introduce risky play into your service without jeopardising children's safety? We know the steps you need to take.

Our presenters have successfully implemented risky play in real centres, including those with under twos. Centre Support is the RISKY PLAY expert. We conduct research on risky play at our own centre with world leading risky play expert Dr Helen Little from Macquarie University. We're excited to be presenting our findings at a Conference in Canada later this year. Our Risk and Play seminar is for all Educators. We'll look at

1. how risky play benefits children's brains and bodies
2. our responsibilities under the Regulations and NQS
3. creating enriching environments that support risky play

You'll be able to talk confidently with assessors and families about the benefits of risky play and the difference between risk and hazard.

5 out of 5 - "Risk and Play delivers an inspiring and meaningful message. I have learnt so much for my service and personally." Jennifer at Giggles ELC

5 out of 5 - "Lukas was approachable. It was great to hear from somebody who has an Early Childhood background and understands where we are coming from." Sue from Taralla Kindy
