

Ensure drinking water is readily available to all children throughout the day.

75% of an infant's body is water. Blood is 80% water and even muscles are 70%. The water in your body delivers nutrients to cells and carries away waste. Water is your body's cooling system. If your body is temporarily short of water - a condition called "dehydration" - every organ in your body is affected.

