

Help keep children safe

Organisations must know their obligations under the Working with Children Act 2005

Follow these tips to help keep children safe

- ✓ Take reasonable steps to prevent anyone charged with, found guilty or convicted of a serious sexual, violent or drug offence, from working with children
- ✓ View every new worker's card or receipt* before you engage them in child-related work
- ✓ Regularly check that every paid and volunteer worker has a valid Working with Children Check card*. Verify their card status using 'Check status' on the website
- ✓ Keep a register of the number, type (Volunteer or Employee) and expiry dates of all your workers' cards
- ✓ Ensure paid workers hold an Employee ('E') Check; it is an offence to use a Volunteer ('V') Check for paid work
- ✓ Remind workers that the Act requires them to tell Working with Children Check Victoria of all changes to workers' details within 21 days of a change occurring
- ✓ Ensure workers can continue doing child-related work by renewing their Check online before it expires
- ✓ Develop processes to deal with workers with a Negative Notice. These people must not do child-related work, even if they qualify for an exemption.

workingwithchildren.vic.gov.au

* Most people can work with children once they have an application receipt. However, some people cannot work until they have passed the Check. Visit the website for details.

 Visit the website for the definition of child-related work.

 Penalties apply.